Delaplaine Foundation, Inc., is a private family foundation based in Frederick, MD, dedicated to the enrichment of communities, families, and quality of life for all. We advance our mission by supporting programs to strengthen the arts and culture, educational advancement, health, and human services in Frederick County, as well as historical preservation and spiritual enlightenment in Frederick County and surrounding areas.

President's Message

Welcome to our 2023-2024 Annual Report. What a remarkable year! A year that saw Delaplaine Foundation reach new heights in both number of grants awarded to our nonprofit impact partners as well as the total annual distribution figure of $2,712,700. It was a year of expansive outreach and major impact, primarily here in Frederick County, Maryland where we are based and where our roots run deep.

Last year we partnered with 166 nonprofit organizations, 88% of which are Frederick County based to address community pressing needs ranging from homelessness and food insecurity to critical and preventative healthcare, addiction and recovery services, mental health, and dental health; from quality youth programs and senior services to educational advancement programs; from visual and performing arts programs to celebrating the past through historical preservation projects and honoring faith in many forms through spiritual enlightenment initiatives.

The community of today is far more diverse in population, socio-economically, and in humanitarian needs than when we opened our doors over two decades ago. Long before coming to the national forefront, Delaplaine Foundation actively engaged in making certain that our grant funding opportunities were inclusive and served diverse populations, acknowledging that the distribution of grant funds was our “response-ability” in helping to meet the needs of all those served by nonprofit organizations whose missions are closely aligned with ours – a mission that is our charge to enrich communities, families and quality of life for all.

While our mission continues to be the North Star that guides us, the ways we pursue and advance it are always evolving based on how the communities we serve grow, change, and develop, resulting in new needs and challenges. We continue to ask questions and learn from our nonprofit partners on the front lines about what is and what's not working. This forces us to remain committed and vigilant while continuously reexamining how philanthropy can help develop solutions for community needs.

What a privilege it is to help “move the needle” in our communities, through grant funding in support of programs, projects and services that are provided by the hundreds of outstanding and dedicated nonprofit organizations with whom we have partnered, and as we work in shared purpose and collaboration with other community funders. If there is a throughline to the work of Delaplaine Foundation, it's investing in programs, services and solutions that honor and enrich this special place we hold near and dear.

In the pages that follow, you'll meet partners who are working to serve those in need through dedicated staff and volunteers who are stepping up in service and leadership. I invite you to read about some of the incredible opportunities we've had to help make positive and lasting differences. These inspirational and in some cases, transformational stories of impact affirm the spirit of philanthropy which is about people helping people for the greater good of all. We're proud to be part of the community's ever evolving story.

The Year In Review

As we reflect on the events of the last year, we consider stories of impact provided by our nonprofit partners, as well as the relevant issues and challenges faced by those in our community. The following pages will feature success stories that illustrate what can be achieved when foundations and nonprofit organizations work together. At the same time, Delaplaine Foundation acknowledges the work still to be done to address community needs - affordable housing and childcare, access to transportation, and food insecurity are areas where greater impact is needed. We look forward to continuing the important work of philanthropy, to fulfill our mission of enriching communities and families in Frederick County and beyond.

Lifecycles Workshop for Local Nonprofits

In April Delaplaine Foundation hosted a workshop for nonprofits entitled “Lifecycles Self-Assessment – Understanding Capacity.” Twenty-four organizations gathered at the Delaplaine Arts Center for the three-hour workshop in which participants gained a greater understanding of the stages of nonprofit development and were tasked with evaluating their own organization’s internal capacity and areas of focus for future growth.

Asbury United Methodist Annual Block Party

For the past four years Delaplaine Foundation has supported the Asbury United Methodist Church Community Block Party. Held annually in the summer, the event featured over 120 nonprofit and organizational booths, along with music and fun for all.

Data Driven Frederick Shared Data Funders Collaborative

For the fourth year in a row, Delaplaine Foundation joined ten other local philanthropies in a shared data project designed to identify collective funding priorities. Using a common coding system, grant data was compiled by each funder. This information was analyzed by Hood College students working under the leadership direction of Dr. David Gurzick, Director of Data Driven Frederick. A presentation of 2022 grantmaking data revealed a dispersal of about $13.1 million dollars in the local community.

Frederick County Nonprofit Summit

Once again Delaplaine Foundation was honored to join with Ausherman Family Foundation to co-host the annual Frederick County Nonprofit Summit, held this year at Frederick Community College in June of 2024. This year's event featured multiple tracks, allowing participants to choose certain topics relevant to their own organizations.

Community Advisory Council Welcomes New Health Ambassador

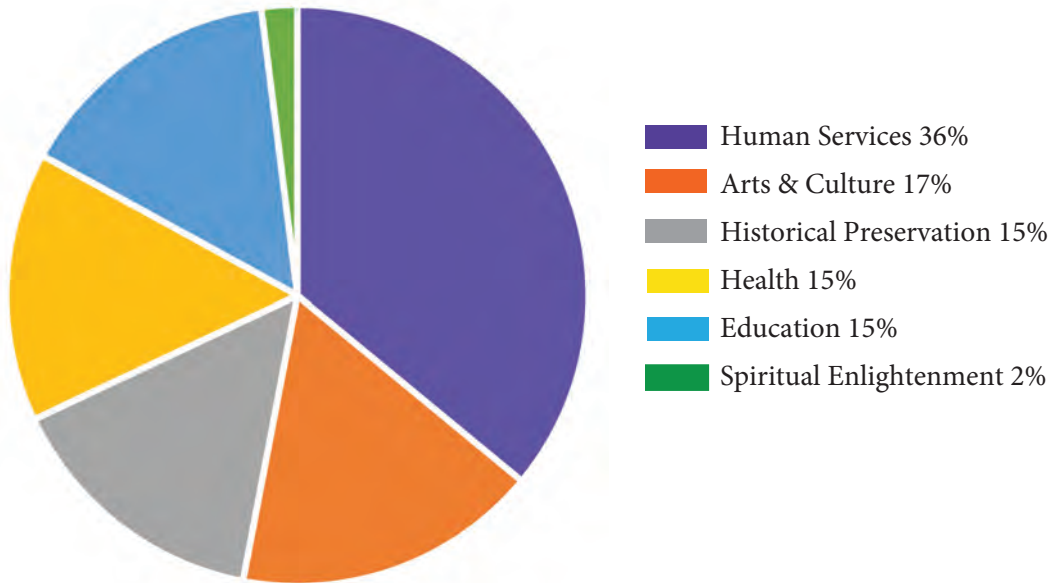

This year Delaplaine Foundation welcomed Dr. Zenobia Bryant to its Community Advisory Council. Established in 2022, the six-member Council serves our Board as a supplemental source of specialized expertise and input for each funding sector. Delaplaine Foundation Trustees, staff, and Community Advisory Council members share lunch together at Gladchuk Bros. Restaurant.

2023 Grants

IMPACT BY THE NUMBERS

$977,500 – Human Services

$470,000 – Arts and Culture

$410,500 – Historical Preservation

$402,000 – Education

$392,700 - Health

$60,000 – Spiritual Enlightenment

2023 grant funding totaled $2,712,700*

* This amount includes limited Trustee discretionary funding, where Trustees may allocate grant funding to nonprofits of their choice outside of the competitive grant process. The discretionary grants awarded annually represent approximately 15% of total funding awarded.

Ch-ch-ch-changes at Delaplaine Foundation!

While driving down West Patrick Street you may have noticed that Delaplaine Foundation has a new sign hanging in front of our office. Or, you might have come across our updated logo in a social media posting. You may have even seen our updated brochure. These are a few of the recent changes we've made, but we've also revised internal policies as a way of increasing our external impact. These changes have been publicized on our website, in the Delaplaine Foundation newsletter, The Greater Good, and in the local newspaper, but we'd like to summarize them here as we enter the 2024 grant cycle.

LOI Implementation

Nonprofits who have never received a grant from Delaplaine Foundation will be required to submit a First-Time Grant Applicant application, which begins with a Letter of Intent (LOI) phase. New potential grant seekers must answer a series of initial questions in order to determine if they can proceed with submitting a full application. Answers are evaluated to determine if the organization is eligible to receive funding under our new funding parameters and geographical boundaries (see details below). A response indicating whether the nonprofit can proceed with submitting an application will be received within two weeks. The LOI phase of the First-Time Grant Applicant application is due on September 1st. Nonprofits who continue with a grant application will need to submit a full application no later than October 1st.

Funding for Four Sectors limited to Frederick County

After receiving an overwhelming number of grant applications in 2023, the decision was made by the Board of Trustees to limit acceptance of applications to nonprofit organizations based in Frederick County OR whose program/project request will impact Frederick County for consideration of grant awards for four of our six funding sectors to programs and projects that impact Frederick County residents. Those sectors are: Arts & Culture, Education, Health, and Human Services. For our remaining two sectors, Historic Preservation and Spiritual Enlightenment, applications for projects that impact Frederick County and surrounding areas will continue to be considered. This policy has been enacted in part to further sharpen our local impact which has been Frederick County-centric since our inception. For 2023, 86% of grant funding was poured back into Frederick County programs and projects.

One Grant Application Per Organization

Nonprofits will now be limited to one grant application per grant cycle. Organizations that typically submit several applications will now need to prioritize a program or combine programs into a single application.

Sponsorships

Similar to our policy for grant applications, nonprofits are now limited to one sponsorship per year. Requests for a sponsorship can be emailed to Jessica Wareham at jwareham@delaplainefoundation.org. Organizations are reminded that our sponsorship budget is limited in order to direct more money towards grant requests.

Arts and Culture

Community Impact

“We have been able to attract highly qualified and well-known artists, consultants, performers, and content area specialists.

Funding provided by the Delaplaine Foundation grant is key to allowing this type of community impact to continue.”

Stories of Success

“When I was seven years old I had a brain infection which required three brain surgeries and I had to have six MRI scans which helped to save my life. Dr. Raymond Damadian was one of the major contributors of the MRI. I decided to write a song about him. The name of his machine was “Indomitable”, and that’s also the name of my song.”

Community Impact

“Thank you so much for funding a scholarship program that helps both myself and hundreds of others get one step closer to their academic goals. Education is a form of empowerment, arguably the most important kind, and being generous enough to donate to the Carson Scholars Fund is helping change the world one student at a time. Your support is a powerful reminder that there are people who believe in my potential and are willing to invest in my future.”

Noa Baum of Story Tapestries with student

Stories of Success

“There was a particular student who is normally very hyper and when Ms. Noa came into our class, he really enjoyed discovering toys in her apron pockets. It was honestly very sweet to see the sparkle in his eyes, and see that he’s actually paying attention. He’s not just jumping up and down, bouncing off walls. He’s engaged.”

Stories of Success

“Our second Exito session was designed specifically for English language learners, and one six year old student struggled with verbal communication. When prompted to share a positive thought, the young boy reiterated, “no puedo,” meaning “I cannot”. In response, the teacher instructed the class to stand up and flex their muscles, repeating “soy fuerte”, meaning “I am strong”, together in encouragement. The teacher stood beside the student, providing additional encouragement as the group continued to support him. Finally, the student flexed his muscles and uttered “soy fuerte” twice. The class erupted in cheers, but the student momentarily paused in shock at his words. He turned to the teacher, threw his arms around him and began to cry, recognizing his ability to articulate a positive thought. This is simply one student who has been empowered with confidence and self-esteem by our programming.”

Stories of Success

“This grant helped us serve five children from Frederick County to ensure that they can have a summer camp experience built with their medical diagnosis in mind first and foremost. The entire program is built around their diabetes, to the point where it feels normal to have blood sugar checking stations at activities and an insulin pump check table at the pool. This is the only place where these children can experience that feeling of “normal.””

Camp Possibilities Foundation Executive Director

Stories of Success

“We recognize the Delaplaine Foundation as a driving force behind helping MHA build a strong foundation of emotional wellness in our community by providing grants for responsive programming.”

Community Impact

“The original goals and objectives for this project were to improve the oral and overall health of our dental clients and reduce the negative impacts of dental issues - pain, self-esteem, and impact on work/home life. Based on our surveys we learned that 100% of our clients came to us in pain, with dental issues affecting their overall health, self-esteem, and daily life. Of the clients who completed their treatment plan, all reported pain relief and improvement in many aspects of their daily life.”

Historic Preservation

The study, funded by Delaplaine Foundation, showed the need for traffic calming measures to be implemented by Maryland SHA on Rte. 806 intersecting Catoctin Furnace Village.

Marlene Young and George B. Delaplaine, III, conduct a site visit at the Hagerstown Aviation Museum with John Seburn, President, and Karen Hemenway.

Community Impact

“The Transystems traffic calming study (on Catoctin Furnace Road) was the essential first step. Maryland SHA (the owner of the roadway) was adamant that once the study was completed they would begin the process of state funding for implementation of the recommendations. However, Maryland SHA would NOT fund the study to begin the process.

That is why the Delaplaine Foundation funding was so essential to this project. The safety of our visitors at Catoctin Furnace is our top priority.”

Heritage Frederick received a grant that supported crucial repointing of stone walls that support the building.

Stories of Success

“This project had a truly significant and lasting impact on the Miller House Museum in perpetuity. In addition to finally supplying HVAC to the only two remaining unheated rooms in the museum, this project assures that the artifacts and documents stored in these rooms will now be in a climate controlled setting, and they will no longer continue to be harmed or damaged by the excessive humidity and cold they have been subjected to in the past. This project has helped WCHS and the Miller House Museum be better stewards of our artifact collection.”

Mentee evaluation of the most recent program

Stories of Success

“Ken, a young Cameroonian immigrant relocated for political asylum, joined our mentoring program in 2020. Initially, he struggled academically with a GPA below 1.0. His mother was concerned about his social isolation and her own challenges in providing transportation due to her college and career commitments. However, once Ken became part of the I Believe In Me program, he overcame his shyness and thrived among his peers. With dedicated homework help, tutoring, and an emphasis on the value of education, Ken’s academic performance significantly improved, culminating in a GPA over 3.0 at graduation. He emerged as a leader, embodying the principles taught by mentors and serving as an exemplary youth ambassador. His participation in the Project GUIDE program further shaped his decision to enlist in the United States Air Force.”

WHAT MAKES DELAPLAINE FOUNDATION UNIQUE

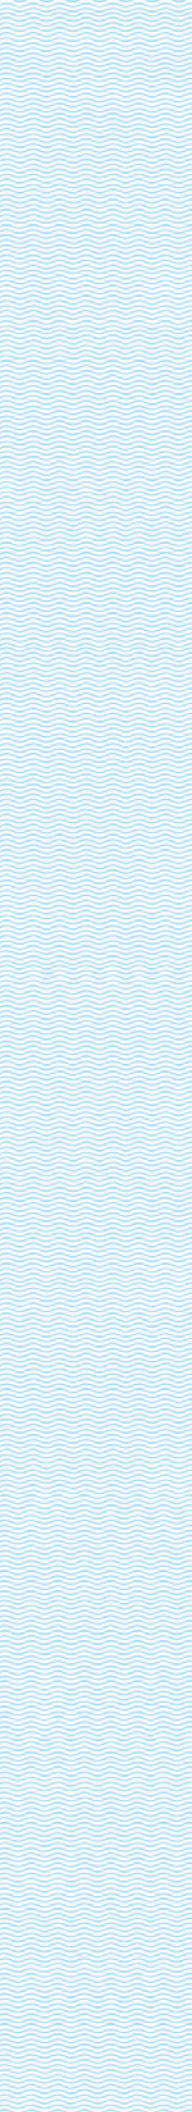

Delaplaine Foundation proudly supports local churches and religious institutions in Frederick County and surrounding areas – you may wonder, why?

Many religious-based organizations offer services similar to traditional nonprofits that serve body, mind, and spirit. Spirituality is one of the guiding values within Delaplaine Foundation's overarching mission. Churches often serve as community centers for events and gatherings. Further, church buildings become symbols of the community in which they are located. The clustered spires of Frederick, seen on marketing materials and even police vehicles, are all atop religious institutions in downtown Frederick. These church features - spires, clock towers, and stained-glass windows - transcend individual congregations, and can be appreciated by local residents as well as visitors to Frederick. The reality is that upkeep of these structures is very expensive, and often church congregations are unable to afford regular maintenance and repair. Many of Delaplaine Foundation's grants awarded under the Spiritual Enlightenment sector are directed towards building maintenance. Other grants are awarded for community events, technology enhancement, faith-based service and learning, and cemetery preservation.

Delaplaine Foundation is pleased to partner with organizations that focus on spiritual enlightenment – working together to advance “The Greater Good.”
